

THE DISTRIBUTOR

The Walt Disney Productions Company was solely in the business of producing cartoons and motion pictures. However, once produced, it is necessary to create many, many copies and to manage their rental to all the theaters in the country. This is an entirely separate process which takes specialized knowledge ... a job the producer often does not want to take on.

Shown here is a contract between the producer company, Walt Disney Productions, – and a distribution company. In this case, it is “Buena Vista Film Distribution Company, Inc.”

The contract is for the distribution of a single picture,
