

Textbook Proposal Sections (With Sample Author Bio)

I. Overview

II. The Project

III. Contents

IV. Market and Competition

V. The Author

The author is professor of sociology at the University of Maine and has regularly taught courses in Crime and Criminal Justice, Law and Society, and Juvenile Delinquency. An active scholar in his areas of interest, the author is also a veteran textbook author, having written several previous texts, including Criminology: A Sociological Understanding, 6e (Pearson), Law and Society: An Introduction (Pearson), Sociology: Understanding and Changing the Social World (Flat World Knowledge), Social Problems: Continuity and Change (Flat World Knowledge), and Discovering Society: Using MicroCase ExplorIT, 3e (Cengage). Two of these books, Criminology: A Sociological Understanding and Sociology: Understanding and Changing the Social World, have received the annual “Texty” Award from the Text and Academic Authors Association for the outstanding college textbook in the humanities/social sciences. The author is a past president of the Society for the Study of Social Problems and currently the Vice President/President-elect of the Text and Academic Authors Association.

VI. Schedule